FRIDAY JUNE 3 1887.

SCIENTIFIC HOAXES.

The great lesson which Culver taught the world was, that many races of animals were entirely extinct, and that Nature's chain of existence had not one, but many missing links. From his recognition of that fact the science of paleontology may be said to date. But the carnivorous nature of the mastodon was too fascinating an absurdity to be so easily killed, and it continued to appear at intervals. As late as 1835 we find a New England medical professor writing as if it were an unquestionable fact. The giant theory lingered still longer, and even yet cannot be considered entirely extinct among the unlearned. The dictum that the superlatives of one age are but the science of preceding ages, receives ample confirmation in the history of this subject. Not longer ago than 1846 a mastodon skeleton was exhibited in New Orleans as that of a giant. The cranium was made of rawhide, fantastic wooden teeth were fitted in the jaws, all missing parts were restored after the human model, and the whole raised upon the hind legs. It certainly conveyed the notion of "a hideous, diabolical giant," and was no doubt responsible for many nightmares. As a sad commentary on the state of the medical profession in the Southwest at that time, it may be added that the exhibitor was perfectly honest in the belief, and to support his faith he had a trunk full of physicians' certificates that these were human bones.

In 1840 "Dr." Koch, a German charlatan, created a great sensation by announcing the discovery of the leviathan of Job, which he called the Missouriian, from the State where it was found. It turned out, however, to be nothing but a mastodon preposterously mounted. Koch had added an extra dozen or more joints to the back-bone and ribs to the chest, turned the tusks outward into a semi-circle, and converted the animal into an aquatic monster which anchored itself to trees by means of its sickle-shaped tusks and then peacefully slumbered on the bosom of the waves. Like the Siberians, he found interesting confirmations of his views in the book of Job, that refuge of perplexed monster-makers. Koch took his leviathan to London, where it was purchased by the British Museum, and reconverted into a mastodon by Prof. Owen, who at once recognized its true nature.—[Prof. W. B. Scott, in Scribner's Magazine for April.

The Philadelphia Record satisfactorily explains the cause of the defeat of the Italians in their conflict with the Abyssinians. It says: "Had the Italians who 'carried the war into Africa' wielded the deadly hand-organ, instead of rifles, the Arabs would have knuckled under at once."
